Summary Note

1) Welcome and introduction round

The Executive Committee Chair welcomed all participants and suggested a brief introduction round. The agenda was adopted.

2) Presentation by SUN Civil Society Network (CSN)

The representatives of the SUN CSN presented the main achievements from 2019, which included the mobilization of functional regional coordinating bodies, successful advocacy for increased budget allocations for nutrition and the inclusion of nutrition within political party manifestos in SUN Countries. The CSN will further expand its work at subnational level and continue to connect and strengthen the capacity of civil society at country level.

In 2020, the priority will be to mobilize commitments at country level as well as their own commitments for the Nutrition for Growth Summit (N4G). The CSN strives to develop a refreshed strategy and to meaningfully contribute to the SUN Movement Strategic Review. Lastly, they strive to strengthen the capacity of CSO members to implement nutrition interventions. Key challenges the network experiences are the capacity gaps, the influence of power dynamics at country level, the challenges with developing a meaningful, inclusive dialogue on private sector engagement, effective collaboration with Nutrition Clusters in fragile and conflict-affected states and supporting innovative funding mechanisms. The CSN asked for support from the SUN Executive Committee by championing civil society, creating space for their voices, and defending CSN from attacks. Further, longer time frames were requested for providing inputs from Networks.

3) Discussion between CSN representatives and Executive Committee members

Other representatives of the CSN provided additional reflections on SUN 3.0 as well as input related to existing challenges. They repeatedly mentioned the need for capacity building of CSOs to enable them to be an equal player. This capacity is also needed in the context of the N4G Summit. Civil Society Alliances were encouraged to go beyond advocacy work and further advance implementation. CSN recognized the crucial importance of the SUN Movement Pooled Fund. At the same time the Network still faces continued challenges with lack of funding, especially for community-based organizations. The CSN would like the Executive Committee to ensure the Strategic Review process remains inclusive and there are opportunities throughout the process to provide input. Examples were presented how Civil Society Alliances have been collaborating regionally, however this requires additional resources. Lastly, stronger engagement with humanitarian work was requested to improve nutrition in fragile and conflict affected contexts.

The Executive Committee recognized the importance of the CSN and took note of the challenges the CSN had raised. The Chair ensured all SUN stakeholders still have the possibility to provide input to the Strategic Review until 30 November 2019.

4) Summary and key take-aways

The Chair summarized the key points, thanked all participants and closed the meeting.
