LAUNCH OF THE BUDGET TRANSPARENCY AND CHILD NUTRITION REPORT (27TH NOVEMBER 2013)

The Uganda Civil Society Coalition on Scaling Up Nutrition (UCCO-SUN) in collaboration with Save the Children launched the Budget Transparency And Child Nutrition Report.

The Accountability and Transparency for Human Rights Foundation with support from The International Budget Partnership and Child Rights Governance Global Initiative of Save the Children carried out the Budget Transparency and Child Nutrition research study in five countries including Uganda. Findings from the research showed that accountability, transparency and public participation are the cornerstones of effective and accountable governments. Without the access to information, it is difficult for the civil society and the public to participate in public spending decisions and to hold the government accountable. Lack of transparency, participation and accountability shrinks the resource envelope that is available for the government to spend on nutrition specific and nutrition sensitive interventions. As a consequence, there is limited scale up of nutrition interventions resulting in high levels of child malnutrition and its related complications which negatively impacts on national development.

The budget transparency and the child nutrition report highlight key gaps that all players need to be aware of for effective nutrition advocacy.

To create awareness among the media a media dialogue was held on the 25th November 2013.
